

Design Rational

Only Okay Designs decided to use this approach because the only type of weapon that we can imagine to require this type of check would be Lightsabers therefore a simple modification of the capability seemed to be sufficient for us. This modification would require a modification of the attack action as well.

